

Lasvegas Cabbie Finds $300,000 - Part 2

A poker player who left $300,000 in the back of a Las Vegas taxi made good on his promise this week, handing over a $10,000 reward to the honest cabbie who returned his cash.

Yellow Checker Star Cab Company confirmed that Gerardo Gamboa had been paid by the poker player. The cab company also honored the driver's good deed by naming him employee of the year, awarding him $1,000 and giving him a gift certificate to a Las Vegas steakhouse.

It's unclear how Gamboa plans to spend the money. Gamboa said, I didn't do that because I wanted the reward."

"If he didn't give me anything, that would have been OK," Gamboa said. "I wasn't waiting for any kind of reward. I just wanted to do the right thing, and I appreciate what the man and my company did for me."
