

Picasso Lottery!

Would you like to own a Picasso painting but don't have a million dollars to spare? Well don't give up; here is your chance to own a real Picasso.

Sotheby's Paris is giving away a $1 million masterpiece by Pablo Picasso in an unusually affordable charity lottery for just $138 a ticket. Yes, a Picasso lottery ticket for just $138!

The work is called "Man in the Opera Hat," and was painted in 1914.

Tickets are limited; there are only 50,000 of them for sale. If you want a ticket, you'd better hurry; they have been on sale since spring.

The lottery hopes to raise $6.9 million. This money will be used to protect the ancient Lebanese city of Tyr, a UNESCO heritage site.

Picasso's grandson, Oliver Picasso, said that his grandfather, who died in 1973, would have been "amused to participate in an event like this."
