

Ferrets Or Cute Dogs

One retired man from Argentina wanted to buy two beautiful toy poodles. He was prepared to spend $1,000 on each dog. While shopping at Argentina's largest bazaar, he found pedigree toy poodles on sale for $75 each. He quickly bought two of them. He felt quite lucky to get such a huge discount and save a lot of money!

On his way home he became suspicious. When he returned home he took a better look at his new 'dogs'. He became even more suspicious.

He took the 'dogs' to a vet for a checkup. He was surprised when the vet informed him that he had purchased two ferrets! They had been given steroids at birth to increase their size and had grooming to make their coats resemble a fluffy toy poodle.

The man decided to keep his new 'dogs'. They live happily in their new home, but haven't yet learned how to fetch.
